

Press Release. 28th September 2013
Contemporary Artist Marcus Clarke.
New PuppetTVGraffiti works.

Homeless in the Puppetised City Art Exhibition.

The Project is now underway for my major new Exhibition in the City of Nottingham, Easter 2014. 8th April to 22nd at The Corner, 8 Stoney Street, NG1 1LH Nottingham.

12x new large Canvas based Puppetised works of Nottingham City Buildings are being created by me to be stared at by a lonely homeless Puppet child in an instillation style exhibition that includes video composite playouts.

There will also be accompanying and complementing family, Nottingham City Building Images based Puppetising activity workshops. The Homeless Puppet itself will be unveiled at the Exhibition. Some of the twelve completed Puppetised works will feature in Nottingham Arts Magazine Left Lion in the run up to the Exhibition.

The First features in Oct/Nov Left Lion Issue 55.

#1 NTU'S NEWTON AND ARKWRIGHT BUILDING

"I applied to an arts foundation course at Trent in the 70's. They wouldn't have me as I had no GCSE's. "Art is an academic subject you see". Although I could do art and draw I didn't understand it they said. What they meant was that I didn't read and write about it. So I did a really useful year at Mansfield College of Art instead. I'm grateful to Trent Poly now NTU for turning me down all those years ago as I don't think I would have had the career I have, had they taught me to understand art, to analyse what I was doing. Now they just have me back as an occasional lecturer instead."
